Re: United States v. Tyrell Johnson
23 Cr. 365 (AT)

Dear Judge Torres,

I write on behalf of Tyrell Johnson to respectfully request a temporary modification of Mr. Johnson's conditions of pretrial release to allow him to celebrate Thanksgiving at a family member's home in Queens, New York (at an address he has provided to Pretrial Services). Pretrial Services informed the undersigned that it has a general policy to object to "social" visits for defendants on home detention, but otherwise notes Mr. Johnson's overall compliance with the terms of his pretrial supervision. The Government defers to Pretrial Services' view.

Mr. Johnson was arrested on June 29, 2023 and released subsequent to his co-signers being sworn to his personal recognizance bond. Among his conditions of release, Mr. Johnson has been subject to home detention, substance abuse treatment, and mental health treatment. While earlier on his release, Mr. Johnson had issues relating to his residence, those issues have been resolved and Mr. Johnson has otherwise been compliant with the terms of his pretrial release and an active participant in his substance abuse and mental health programming. Given his overall record of compliance and his appearance at every court appearance to date, we respectfully request that he be permitted to celebrate Thanksgiving with his family at a home close to his residence on a schedule approved by Pretrial Services.

GRANTED.

SO ORDERED.
